

Dewey Curtails Speech-Making, Sure He'll Win

By JACK BELL
Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was described by friends today as so confident of election victory he may make fewer than 10 major campaign speeches.

The Republican campaign course will not be fixed finally until an Albany meeting next week with Gov. Earl Warren of California, Dewey's running mate.

But the signs now point to a sharp contrast between the GOP nominee's carefully-paced bid for November support and the sort of whistle stop speaking drive planned for President Truman by the Democratic National committee.

If early plans jell, friends said Dewey may make one long campaign tour by train. After that he may fly to fill individual speaking dates, returning to Albany after each.

Mr. Truman's course is expected to be outlined at a midweek White House meeting with J. Howard McGrath, the party chairman, and other advisers.

Republicans have no financial troubles, but the Democrats are reported still to lack the cash to put on as big a drive as they would like.

Since radio time costs so much and the President isn't regarded as a skilled performer, some party members say off-the-cuff speeches on the courthouse steps and at rail stations will be a lot cheaper and possibly more effective. These would come while he is traveling to and from rallies where he will speak formally on major topics.

Without doubt the president will have plenty to say in all of these talks about the record of the Republican-controlled Congress, which he has tagged as the "worst" in the nation's history.

Friends said he probably will try to link Dewey to the special session's refusal to give him price-wage and rationing controls by insisting that something might have been done along this line if the GOP nominee had taken a firm stand.

Dewey's associates on the other hand have been going around Capitol Hill patting themselves on the back because they say the New York governor didn't fall into what they call a Democratic trap and let himself get embroiled in the Truman-Congress row.

Communist States Oppose Free Danube East and West Split On Waterway Proposal

By ALEX H. SINGLETON
Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Aug. 10 (AP)—Eastern Europe's Communist states opened a broadside attack today on the western powers' effort to win free navigation guarantees on the Danube.

The Danube controversy and the split here between East and West were intensified as an 11-nation conference called to write a new pact governing transport on central Europe's major waterway began detailed debate on a Soviet draft of a preamble for the pact.

The French have introduced a counter proposal which would omit the declaration in the Russian draft recording the conference's determination to protect the "sovereign rights of the Danube states."

The United States delegate has proposed an amendment providing that the interests "of all nations" would be protected on the Danube.

In rapid order, however, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, the Ukraine and Romania served notice that they will insist upon reserving the Russian preamble intact. This foreshadowed probable unity of the Communist bloc of seven on all terms of the proposed convention.

The French took the floor at the outset of the debate to acknowledge that Russia has acquired a "privileged position" in the Danube regime, but served notice that France will resist any effort to restrict shipping on the 1,800-mile waterway.

Neck Slashed Open, Rogers City Crash Victim Saves Self
Minneapolis, Aug. 10 (AP)—A Rogers City, Mich., man who held a gaping neck wound closed with his hands until physicians arrived was believed on the road to recovery today.

Edward Courval, 29-year-old accident victim, was thrown through a windshield Saturday night. When surgeons arrived at the scene of the crash they found him holding the wound closed. They took 26 stitches.

Courval was discharged from General hospital shortly after treatment.

WOMAN BREAKS NECK
Adrian (AP)—Mrs. Luella Clegg suffered a broken neck in a fall from a ladder while doing housework last week. She did not discover it until two days later when she went to Bixby hospital for x-rays. Physicians said she would recover.

Owen J. Roberts, 73, To Head Law School At Pennsylvania U.

Philadelphia, Aug. 10 (AP)—With the selection of Owen J. Roberts as dean of its law school, the University of Pennsylvania tapped a leading public figure for a high administrative post for the second time in less than two weeks.

Pennsylvania announced appointment of the 73-year-old former associate justice of the U. S. supreme court yesterday. He will assume his new post September 1 when the resignation of Earl G. Harrison becomes effective.

On July 29 the university chose Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, as its new president. Stassen is expected to take up his duties here at the beginning of the fall term.

Both Stassen and Roberts say they belong to the liberal wing of the Republican party. Harrison was a Democrat who once served as commissioner of the U. S. immigration and naturalization service.

Stassen said, upon announcement of his nomination as president of Penn, that he would continue to take an active interest in public affairs.

Appointed By Hoover
Roberts has been plugging for civil rights since he retired from the nation's highest tribunal in 1945. He sat on the supreme court bench for 15 years after his appointment in 1930 by former President Herbert Hoover.

For several years after Franklin D. Roosevelt became president, Roberts was the key member of the supreme court. The court at that time was balanced 4-4 between conservatives and liberals and Roberts held the balance of power.

He voted against all but two of the 13 new deal measures the court passed upon prior to October, 1936, but in FDR's second term, Roberts aligned himself with the liberal element and voted pro-administration 14 straight times.

A Philadelphia lawyer who was graduated from Penn. and its law school, Roberts first came into national prominence in 1924 when he helped prosecute the Teapot Dome oil cases.

Over six feet tall and broad-shouldered, the 73-year-old Roberts has been living in his home in nearby Phoenixville since his retirement from the supreme court.

Peace Propaganda Commission Named
Five Men Direct Story Of America Abroad
Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—The job of finding the best way to tell the American story abroad — and thus further world peace — was entrusted to a five-man commission today.

President Truman named the group yesterday to serve as advisers to Secretary Marshall in carrying out the state department's program of international broadcasts, educational exchanges and other efforts to increase understanding between the United States and other nations.

Mark Ethridge, publisher of the Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal and Times, was named chairman of the advisory commission.

Other members are: Mark A. May, New Haven, Conn., director of the Yale University Institute of Human Relations; Justin Miller, Los Angeles, president of the National Association of Broadcasters; Edwin D. Canham, Boston, editor of the Christian Science Monitor and president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors; and Philip D. Reed, New York, chairman of the General Electric Company.

Congress authorized the advisory commission on information during the regular session after an extended debate over the state department's information program. Congressional fire was centered in particular against a voice of America radio series which many members said labeled certain states.

Costa Rica Curbs Activity Aimed At Invasion of Panama
Panama, Panama, Aug. 10 (AP)—Panama's president says he has been assured the Costa Rican government will bar any activity aimed at upsetting Panama's government.

He said he received that assurance last night from Jose Figueres, head of the Junta now governing Costa Rica. Reports yesterday from high government sources here said former president Arnulfo Arias Madrid was in Costa Rica organizing an armed invasion of Panama.

In San Jose, Arias denied these reports. He fled Panama last week after being declared the loser in the May presidential elections.

Colonies In Africa Problem For Big 4
London, Aug. 10 (AP)—Big Four deputy foreign ministers held a closed session today to hear United States views on the future of Italy's prewar colonies in Africa.

They decided yesterday to discuss each of three—Libya, Eritrea and Somaliland—separately, so as to avoid having differences on one small agreement over the others.

The deputies have less than two weeks in which to report the results of their 11 months of work to decide the future of the colonies. The council of foreign ministers then has until Sept. 13 to agree if it does not, the whole problem will be inherited by the United Nations assembly.

Recovery Measure Approved In France
Premier Marie Registers Third Round Victory
Paris, Aug. 10 (AP)—Premier Andre Marie appeared well on the way to a third round victory in the national assembly today.

A compromise reached last night on a controversial section of a measure designed to help the government deal with the French financial crisis led to the general belief the bill will be approved by a substantial majority.

Under the compromise, the recovery measure would permit the government to regulate some taxes either upwards or downwards but such regulatory decrees would have to be ratified by the assembly. The Communists, opposing the bill, shouted its passage would sell France down the river to the United States.

The measure, sponsored by Finance Minister Paul Reynaud, also would give Marie's coalition cabinet power to cut government expenses and increase production.

A solid majority of the deputies approved the Marie government in a vote two weeks ago. Previously they had agreed to give him a chance as premier. The vote on the Reynaud plan is the third affecting Marie. No vote of confidence is involved, however.

Children Chained To Bed As Parents Go To Bingo Game
Central City, Colo., Aug. 10 (AP)—A 26-year-old woman and her husband were held for investigation today after Sheriff Oscar Williams said, the wife admitted chaining two of their four children to a bed.

State Humane Officer Leroy Harris said he found Richard Blackburn, 6, and his brother Larry, 5, with chains around their necks, padlocked to the bed-springs.

The sheriff said Claude Blackburn, 33, and his wife, Pauline, chained the boys while they went out to operate a bingo game.

New Blows Directed At Living Costs

Government Boosts Price For Borrowing Money

BY STERLING F. GREEN
Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—The government aimed a new blow at living costs today by boosting the price it will pay for some of its borrowed money.

Private finance is expected to follow suit and demand a higher rate on its loans.

Thus the administration's goal in this process of making credit more expensive is to discourage some of the borrowing that has been cited as one factor in inflation.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder gave the cue last night. He announced that the government shortly will pay more interest on its short-term securities.

New Credit Controls
The first impact of Snyder's move will be felt September 15 and October 1. On those dates some $10,500,000,000 in government issues will fall due, or about one twenty-fifth of the national debt.

These will be replaced with issues paying a slightly higher rate. Treasury certificates which have carried 1 1/4 per cent, for example, will give place to certificates paying 1 1/2 per cent.

That means it will cost the government $12.50 to borrow $1,000 instead of the $11.25 it now is paying.

By the time these higher rates go into effect it is expected that the Federal Reserve board will have brought into play the new controls over bank and consumer credit which were authorized Saturday by the special session of Congress.

Officials have predicted that President Truman will sign these laws quickly, accompanying his approval with a denunciation of Congress for not providing the more drastic powers he asked—price-wage, rationing and priority powers.

While limited in scope, the new controls nevertheless will hit both the big fellow and little fellow. Some consumers may be driven.

Guns Guard Ballot Count In Tennessee
Polk County Democratic Bosses Unseated
Benton, Tenn., Aug. 10 (AP)—A canvass of returns from last week's bloody Polk county general election was completed late last night under the protection of National Guard bayonets and machine guns—without untoward incident.

A picked squad of 65 state highway patrolmen aided National Guardsmen in patrolling this small community in the rugged east Tennessee mountain country as county election commissioners worked behind closed doors.

When the commissioners left the courthouse ringed by machine guns, they found the streets of this town of less than a thousand persons quiet and deserted except for patrolling guardsmen.

No disorders have been reported by the troops and highway patrolmen rolled into town Friday, in the wake of election strife which brought death to three persons and wounds to four others.

The canvass of returns gave the good government league majorities in all county posts, unseating the long established Democratic political organization headed by Burch E. Biggs.

Lightning Hits Cave, Kills Two California Mountain Climbers
San Francisco, Aug. 10 (AP)—Two California mountain climbers died and two others were burned seriously Wednesday when lightning struck a cave in which they were huddled high on an 11,500-foot peak in the Canadian Rockies.

News of the tragedy came to light last night with a telephoned report to the Associated Press office here from a member of the hiking party who did not attempt the climb.

Dead were Rolf Pundt of Berkeley and Bob Becker of Los Gatos.

Recovering from second and third degree burns in a Cranbrook, B. C., hospital were Ann Strong, Berkeley, and Ian MacKinlay of San Francisco.

The report was made by John Thune, physical education director of the Oakland Y. M. C. A., and one of a party of 18 climbing in the Bugaboo Range near Spillamachean, B. C.

This was Thune's account: Pundt, Becker, MacKinlay and Miss Strong tackled Bugaboo spire Wednesday and reached a small cave near the top.

They took refuge there when falling snow made the rocks icy. As they huddled in the cave the lightning struck. All were knocked unconscious.

When MacKinlay came to, he told Thune, he saw Pundt twisting in convulsions. As the barely conscious MacKinlay watched, Pundt wrote over the edge of the cliff outside the cave and dropped 1,000 feet to his death.

Becker was partially paralyzed and semi-conscious. MacKinlay and Miss Strong, both badly burned, were unable to move him. They left him in the cave with food beside him and his body tied to prevent his slipping over the cliff. Then they began the descent for help.

The two miraculously descended safely down the ice-encrusted mountain. But the rest of the party was unable to climb the peak until Saturday, after the storm had lifted. By the time they reached the cave Becker was dead.

The rescuers cut his body loose but it slipped from their grasp and also plunged over the ice edge.

Crop Forecast May Be Record-Breaker

Big Production Expected To Cut Food Prices

By OVID A. MARTIN
Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—The government readied a progress report today on a crop season that looks as though it will put more foodstuff into harvest bins than ever before in history.

Major interest in the report due at 2 p. m. EST, centered on corn—the major raw material for meats, dairy products and poultry. A month ago, the agriculture department predicted this crop would be the largest of record. Today's corn estimate seemed likely to be higher than previously forecast.

A record corn crop is expected to help bring lower retail meat, milk, butter, egg and poultry prices next year. Prices of these food items are at or close to record levels now because last year's crop was a near failure. As a result farmers were forced to curtail production.

A big corn crop—with accompanying lower grain prices—would encourage farmers to expand livestock output again. Under normal conditions, this increased production should begin to show up in lower retail prices next spring.

A month ago the department forecast corn at 3,328,862,000 bushels. This topped the 1946 record of 3,249,950,000. The weather has been so favorable since then that experts would not be surprised if today's estimate were not close to 3,450,000,000.

GRAVESTONE STOLEN
Menominee (AP)—Police began a nightly patrol of Riverside cemetery after a series of thefts from grave sites were reported. Among items stolen was a 50-pound headstone from a child's grave.

Negro Beach Resort Planned For Shore Near Hollywood, Fla.
Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Aug. 10 (AP)—Dr. Von D. Mizell, Negro physician here, said today a Negro beach resort is being considered for an area immediately south of Port Everglades inlet near Hollywood, Fla.

Backing the project, he said, are retiring heavyweight champion Joe Louis; band leader Cab Calloway; singer Lena Horne, and dancer Bill Robinson.

Dr. Mizell said the plan hinges on the construction of a bridge to make the property accessible. An appeal to the state road department to extend U. S. Highway No. 1-A to the property is to be made, the physician reported.

A hotel, cabanas, and business and residential facilities are planned.

Firemen in Detroit To Quit Pole-Slides
Detroit, Aug. 10 (AP)—This city, best known for antiquating the horse-drawn carriage, is giving the heave-ho to another well-established institution—the fire station brass pole.

Fire Chief Ninnian C. Higby, a pole slider for 36 years, let it out by discarding plans for two new bungalow-type stations which don't need fire poles.

Sigler Considers Special Session After Elections

Lansing, Aug. 10 (AP)—Governor Sigler today was thinking about calling the fourth special legislative session of his administration.

He said he might call the legislature after the Nov. 2 general election to consider:

1—Setting salaries of state officials and legislators if the people at the election approve the removal of constitutional ceilings.

2—Revising the distribution of weight tax (license plate fees) returns and possible increases in the tax.

"I did not say I was going to do it," the governor said. "I said I was considering it."

He added that even if the constitutional amendments removing salary ceilings passed, he still might not call the legislature.

The governor said that if the question of salaries were left to the regular session of January, 1949, any change in salaries could not be effective until 1952. The constitution prohibits changing salaries of public officials during their term of office.

He added that he was going to make a strong personal fight for adoption of the constitutional amendments.

As an example of the difficulties created by "frozen" salaries of state officials, the governor cited his inability to find anyone willings to take the position of superintendent of public instruction for $7,500 a year.

He said superintendents of local school districts of any size make $10,000 and more annually.

The state position was vacated by the resignation of Dr. Eugene B. Elliott to become president of Michigan State Normal College, Ypsilanti.

The governor said that any change in the weight tax distribution or any increase, to be effective in 1949, must be passed before Jan. 1.

County road commissions have been strongly pressing for financial relief for two years. The Good Roads Federation, after 18 months of study of the highway system, recommended a wholesale revision of the weight tax distribution formula.

Guardsmen Jailed After Munising Hop
Officers Borrow Plane At Grayling Camp
Munising, Mich., Aug. 10 (AP)—Two Michigan National Guard officers who said they "just wanted to take a trip" were held today for military authorities on charges of making an unauthorized flight from Grayling to Munising Sunday in a Guard plane.

Capt. John Ananich, jr., 34, is held at the Marquette County jail. Lt. Charles Heisen, 20, was lodged at the Alger County jail here. Both are from Flint.

The two admitted they took a National Guard plane at the Grayling encampment. Flying without an air map over the Straits of Mackinac, they stopped at four airports before reaching here. Lt. Heisen was identified as the pilot.

"I knew better," Capt. Ananich told officers at Ishpeming, where he went in a taxi to visit friends after landing in Munising.

The plane was returned yesterday to Grayling.

Sky-Writing Used To Deliver Sermon By Detroit Pastor
Detroit, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Rev. Bert Turner is delivering sermons in the heavens now.

His message, "Jesus Saves," was emblazoned across the sky yesterday by a sky-writing plane.

The interdenominational evangelist minister said he may employ the same ultramodern advertising device to deliver Biblical texts to upward looking Detroiters.

To his knowledge, he said, this is the first time a church has tried such a project.

Girl Worn Down, Hiccups 170 Days
Waynesburg, Pa., Aug. 10 (AP)—Physicians at Greene county hospital continued their efforts today to find a cure for the hiccups that have worn Pauline Lucas down from 129 pounds to 78 in the last 170 days.

Miss Lucas, 31-year-old clerk, started hiccuping Feb. 23. Part of the time she hiccups 75 times a minute with the rate slowing down occasionally to 10 or 15.

Doctors have tried medicinals and anesthesia while the dark-haired victim has herself attempted most of the old home cures—Holding her breath, a knife placed under a glass, a sudden fright, but the hiccuping continued.

Gallon of Whisky In Detroit Drifter Jolts Drunkometer
Detroit, Aug. 10 (AP)—Grover Cleveland Erwin, 19, was listed today by police as the most intoxicated driver arrested in Detroit since the coming of the drunkometer.

"I drank a whole gallon of whiskey," officers said the youth told them after his car collided with another.

They were inclined to believe him. He registered 38 on the drunkometer, compared to the previous record of 35 and the .15 figure that is considered legal evidence of intoxication.

Traffic Judge D. Watts sentenced Erwin to 10 days in the Detroit House of Correction and six months' probation.

Envoys See Molotov For Fourth Time

Closer Cooperation With U. S. Urged By Moscow

By GEORGE BRIA
Berlin, Aug. 10 (AP)—Vague rumors that the Russians were about to lift the Berlin blockade by opening the railroad to the west were discounted today.

While Berliners awaited results of meetings of the three western envoys with Foreign Minister Molotov in the Kremlin, responsible British government sources said the talks still are bogged down over what should be done to achieve an immediate settlement in Berlin.

W. T. Babcock, U. S. deputy commander in Berlin, said he had heard from a usually "fairly accurate" German source that the Russians have ordered German rail officials to stand by for possible reopening of the railway.

"Repairs" Completed
The British licensed German press service quoted the German supervisor of the line as denying the rumors.

A Russian-sponsored unit crowded the regular city government food administration out of the city hall in the Soviet zone today. It seemed probable the city's food administration would be established in the western part of Berlin, thus giving the city two food offices, just as it has two police chiefs and police forces.

The elected Berlin city government authorized its food department official, Paul Fuelsack, to look for added space after the Russians moved in on him. There is little chance he could get offices in the Russian area so it appeared he would have to move into either the U. S., British or French zone.

East and west Berlin have been fed separately since June 25 when the Russians quit the four-power food pool. The Russians then said no more food from the surrounding Soviet zone would be sent into western Berlin.

When the Russians announced their intention of trying to feed the entire city, they moved into city hall and amplified their own staff to administer the job. Scarcely more than one per cent of the people of western Berlin registered for Russian food rations.

The French licensed newspaper Der Kurier said German railroad officials have been informed that the railroad may be reopened only on specific instructions from the Russian military administration. Der Kurier said the construction department of the German state railways in the Soviet zone has reported that "repairs" on the line are virtually complete and that "only small sections remain to be worked over."

The Russians closed the railway in June for what they said were

DEATH CALLS MRS. STACK

Funeral Will Be Held Friday Morning

Mrs. Henry M. Stack, prominently known resident of Escanaba, died this morning at 5:25 o'clock at her home, 738 Lake Shore drive, following a lingering illness.

Mrs. Stack, who was Pearl Bell, was born in Iron Mountain, and as a child moved to Menominee where she completed her early education. She received her degree from Milwaukee State Teachers' college and prior to her marriage to Mr. Stack which took place in 1923, she was a kindergarten teacher.

She came to Escanaba from Manistique where she and Mr. Stack first lived after their marriage.

Mrs. Stack was a devout member of St. Joseph's church and active in parish affairs. She also was a member of the Escanaba Woman's club and the Escanaba Golf club. Keenly interested in young people and their activities she aided in sponsoring many of their recreational affairs up to the time of her illness.

She leaves one son, Paul David, two daughters, Loretto and Sally, and one sister, Mrs. Ruby Farrell, of Chicago. Mr. Stack died February 16, 1946.

The body was taken to the Allo funeral home and will be removed to the Stack home Wednesday evening. Services will be held at 9 o'clock Friday morning at St. Joseph's church, with Rev. Fr. Patrick, O. F. M., celebrant of the solemn requiem high mass. Burial will be in the Stack family plot in Holy Cross cemetery.

Hamburgers Rated 'People's Choice'

Ithaca, N. Y., (SS)—Hamburgers are the most popular American dish.

More people eating in restaurants, cafeterias and soda fountains today will be ordering hamburgers than will be choosing any other kind of food, Arthur W. Dana, kitchen consultant for the American Hotel Association, declared here. Mr. Dana is teaching at a summer course in the Hotel Administration School at Cornell University.

Milk is becoming more popular, he added. At least half of the diners in industrial cafeterias will choose it instead of coffee.

Restaurant patrons apparently eat more when the price they pay includes the entire meal than when it includes only the entree and vegetables. If dessert and appetizer are extra, about 60 percent will take dessert. Only 20 percent to 30 percent will take an appetizer if they have to pay separately for it.

Tastes differ widely in the matter of cooked vegetables, Mr. Dana explained. Southerners want their vegetables well cooked and boiled with fat meat; northerners would rather have theirs cooked quickly with butter added when the vegetable is done. The northerners' attitude agrees with the teachings of nutritionists who say that quickly cooked vegetables contain more vitamins and minerals.

Boy And His Horse Together In Death

Detroit, Aug. 10. (AP)—Thirteen-year-old Charles Pease and his beloved pony Princess have had their last ride together.

Charles, according to his father, Gerald Pease, has "lived and breathed" horses for years. He was just 10 when the elder Pease gave him the gentle Princess.

Pease had purchased the horse after visiting the graves of two young relatives who died in their teens. Life is too short to deny a son's greatest wish, he decided.

The boy and his horse were almost inseparable. Day after day they took long rides through the flat country of suburban Livonia township.

Charles and Princess got along so well together that the boy usually slung the reins over the pommel and let the pony lead the way.

They were riding that way Monday night when a car frightened Princess as she started to cross a busy highway. She bolted in front of it.

The speeding car killed both Charles and his horse.

Mother of 4 Wins Duesnesne Diploma

Pittsburgh, (AP)—A 32-year-old mother of four children finally graduated from Duesnesne university—but it took her 13 years.

In between the years of night school study and the diploma she received Aug. 7, dark-haired Mrs. Virginia Geary worked as a stenographer, married a young law student and did housework and baby-tending.

Proudest of the graduation spectators was Mrs. Geary's four-year-old son, Kevin. The 11-month-old twin girls and Mark, 8, stayed at home.

"Mark said he'd rather play tiddley-winks," the mother with the new bachelor of science degree explained.

Mrs. Geary said she hopes someday to work in foreign trade. But—not for a while.

"I'm going to concentrate on raising my family," she says.

Anihony Bruce, 5, Dies At Marquette

Anthony Lawrence Bruce, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bruce of Arnold, died at 11:45 o'clock last night at St. Luke's hospital in Marquette after a month's illness.

He was born February 12, 1943. Surviving are his parents and the following brothers and sisters: Wallace Jr., Beverly, Dale, Gerald, Conrad, and Anita, all of Arnold; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bruce and Mr. and Mrs. St. Vincent of Arnold.

The body will lie in state at the funeral home Thursday morning and funeral services will be conducted from the Allo funeral chapel at 2 p. m., Thursday, with Father Sebastian Maier officiating. Burial will be made in Holy Cross cemetery.

Flint Judge Calls Two U.S. Attorneys In Car Racket Quiz

Flint, Mich., Aug. 10. (AP)—Two United States attorneys were called into Circuit Judge Philip Elliott's court today as the battle over a set of grand jury records entered a new phase.

Judge Elliott subpoenaed District Attorneys Thomas P. Thornton of Detroit and Joseph F. Deeb of Grand Rapids to appear with Attorney General Eugene F. Black. All three promised to be on hand. But Thornton, who received the much-sought records of the auto racket grand jury last week, made no promise that he would bring them with him.

"I'll have to look up the law on that," he said yesterday. Thornton indicated after a conference with Deeb in Detroit that he would like to keep the records for further study. The auto dealers who were subject to probe by the now defunct grand jury want the papers returned.

Arthur E. Summerfield, Michigan Republican national committeeman and a Flint auto dealer, joined two other dealers in filing circuit court suit last week to recover them. Before that Black and Judge Elliott had engaged in lengthy legal sparring over their disposition.

Black has implied he would like to base an investigation of the Michigan GOP's fund-raising practices on the records. He charged on previous occasions that the party assesses campaign contributions from auto dealers in return for certain considerations with regard to taxes.

Miller Unopposed For Probate Judge On Primary Ballot

William J. Miller, Rapid River, probate judge of Delta county, will be unopposed on the judicial non-partisan ballot as a candidate for reelection to the office he has held for the past several years. The deadline for filing nomination petitions was yesterday.

The primary election will be held Tuesday, Sept. 14. In the judicial election on that date the two candidates receiving the largest number of votes will have their names on the ballot for the general election in November.

Other judicial offices at stake are those of circuit court commissioner for Delta county. No candidates have filed for those offices, and in the event none are elected the vacancies will be filled by appointment.

Bell Telephone To Have "Little Theater" At Fair

The Michigan Bell Telephone company's exhibit this year at the Upper Peninsula State Fair, which will be open for six days beginning Aug. 17, will be both educational and entertaining.

It will consist of a "Little Theater"—a portable motion picture theater complete with marquee, seats, a projection booth, stage, and acoustical treatment.

Two movies, "Telephones in Rural America" and "Party Lines" will be shown without charge and will feature the telephone's part in modern farm life.

The first film, with its picturesque scenes and vivid narrative pace, tells of the Bell System's plans for rural telephone improvements and expansion during the next few years. The second film employs marionettes, vivid color, and a lively musical score to show the advantages of neighborly cooperation on a party line by featuring typically party-line "pests."

4-H DORMITORY BEING ERECTED

Aluminum Building Will Be Ready For Fair

Erection of the prefabricated aluminum dormitory building at the Upper Peninsula State Fair grounds was started Monday by a crew from the Butler Construction company, Sterling, Illinois. The erection of the building and the installation of the facilities will be completed this week, in time for the opening of the fair next Tuesday.

The building, which will house 4-H club boys and girls at the fair, is 108 feet by 32 feet, divided into sections for boys at one end and girls at the other. There will be four showers and two dressing rooms.

A dozen men are employed in the erection of the building. Alfred Brandt has the contract for the carpenter work.

City Band Will Play Concert Wednesday

Hoebreckx Case Settlement Seen

Menominee, Mich.—The answer and counter suit for divorce filed in Menominee circuit court against Elizabeth George Hoebreckx by her husband Cyril J. Hoebreckx were withdrawn yesterday.

It is believed Mrs. Hoebreckx's suit for divorce will be granted by default some time this week by Judge Glenn W. Jackson.

Hoebreckx dropped the counter suit after conferences between attorneys representing both parties were successful in working out a property settlement.

Mrs. Hoebreckx is the great granddaughter of the late Isaac W. Stephenson, former U. S. senator from Wisconsin and lumber baron. She claims cruelty in her suit for divorce.

The property settlement stipulation, filed in circuit court, would give Mrs. Hoebreckx their recently completed country estate, and part of their business holdings in Marinette. Her share includes a package liquor store. Hoebreckx would get an automobile agency and service station, owned by a corporation in which the Hoebreckx's are major stockholders.

A six-ton electromagnet has enough magnetic force to lift 13 average-sized automobiles.

U. S. Forest Service Will Buy Pine Cones Again This Year

The United States Forest Service is buying pine cones again this year, it was stated today by George A. Young, assistant supervisor of the Upper Michigan National Forest Service.

Within a few days, farmers, young men not fully employed, and others will climb Norway pine, jack pine and white spruce for cones. These must be brought to Forest Service rangers in Manistique, Rapid River, Munising, Moran and Raco where they are checked for seed value, ripeness, mold and other factors which influence the reproducing qualities of the seeds.

The Forest Service will pay $8 per bushel for red pine cones; $5 per bushel for white spruce cones; and $2.50 per bushel for jack pine cones.

"The need for Norway or red pine cones is especially urgent this year," George Young, assistant supervisor has reported. "We will however buy some of the jack pine and spruce cones."

The price on Norway pine cones this year, is one of the highest on record.

The Escanaba sub-regional office of the Milwaukee Regional office of the Forest Service is in charge of the five districts comprised in the Hiawatha and Marquette National Forests.

Norway pine cones are tested for ripeness by throwing a handful of them in a pail of kerosene. If a majority of them float, they are ready for picking. They must be returned from an United States military cemetery overseas, will be held at ten o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Charles church in Rapid River. Rev. Fr. Anthony Schloss will officiate at the service. Military rites will be conducted by veterans' organizations at Rapid River cemetery where burial will be made. The body, brought to Escanaba this morning, is in state at the Allo funeral home.

The rosary will be recited at the funeral home at 8 o'clock this evening.

not be stored in baskets or sacks as mold will form on them. If they are to be kept for a day or more, the cones should be spread out on a canvas, where air will have free access to them.

Each cone contains many seeds, one under each scale on the cone. Of course, if there has been any damage to the cone through weevils, or physical injury, the seed is not good.

Seeds gathered from cones each year are processed in the Forest Service department and stored for planting in the National Forests.

No specific amount to be collected is assigned each office, for the amount of seed produced in areas vary each year. Thus seed can be collected throughout the United States on the basis of amount available.

RUARK TAKES RIDE IN 'SUB'

He'll Enjoy It Since
War Is Over

By ROBERT C. RUARK
New London, Conn. — I am about to go for a ride in a fancied-up pigboat, the USS Tusk, which is a Guppy II and has snorkel. It can snorkel just as easy as a fish can float, and because it can snorkel it is special stuff. But it wouldn't be a Guppy II if it couldn't do something else pretty special, also.

Right now, all I know is that snorkel lets a submarine breathe fresh air for limitless days under water, also that a Guppy II has high underwater speed. A Guppy II just has snorkel, as any fool can plainly see. You can also see the Navy hasn't changed much since you went away. It is just as cute in terminology as ever.

The Tusk is more or less typical of our future submarine construction. She is wearing something borrowed and something blue. This snorkel routine we took from the Germans, who swiped it from the Dutch. What makes her fast underwater is our own baby, and just how fast she goes is a secret. Also she is streamlined down to bare essentials. All the shoot-guns are gone from the deck, because the Navy figures we don't need guns on submarines any more.

"Sub" News Was Secret
The Tusk's skipper is 34-year old Comdr. Guy Gugliotta of New London, an Annapolis '38er who made 11 patrols against the Japs during the war. He is smallish, dark, and is regarded with something approaching reverence by his crew. I was touch-shocked when I met Gugliotta. I read a lot of submarine reports during the war—secret ones—and I always had an idea that sub commanders were 12 feet tall, had radar brains, breathed fire and were shod with magic sandals.

While the war was running, there was so much secrecy about submarines, even in the service, that the submariners lived apart as demigods. You weren't even allowed to say "submarine." Losses were known only to God and Ernie King. The fat score in enemy shipping was a secret, and every time a skipper won his third or fourth Navy Cross, even the official words of praise were run through special censorship.

Had Key To Honolulu
The boats, battered and beat, used to slide back into Pearl after a tough patrol, and the pallid, haggard crew would get off for the duration of an overhaul. They piled up at the Royal Hawaiian, and for three weeks between patrols, the sky wasn't high enough for their limit. The boys with the beards and the dolphins had the master key to Honolulu. It developed they earned it, because the final tote showed that our 250-odd submarines had racked up over enemy shipping than the combined air and sea forces.

Reading those reports, even after three years of Navy, was as thrilling as watching a Hitchcock movie. Slade Cutter, the All-American tackle, took his boat into a Jap harbor and watched a horse race through the periscope. Another guy went into a harbor, failed to find a worthy target, and popped a fish into the dock. He killed a busload of Jap sailors coming back from liberty.

Lost 20 Per Cent
I remember the sheen report of one skipper. He said he was sure he had sunk a couple of transports, but he didn't see 'em go down. However, he said he knew he sank 'em, because he did have documentary proof that he sank the two destroyers which had come out to pick up the survivors of the undocumented ships.

We lost 20 per cent of our submarines—52 ships and about 3,750 men. We only had 15,000 men in the entire sub force, but they sank so much Jap shipping that they ran out of targets. For the last six months or so, they cruised around on the surface, knocking off sampans and barges—and picking up gross lots of our shot-down fly-boys.

Our subs, in those days, were about as good as anybody's. They had a lot of tricky stuff on them which was secret then and isn't any more. But they weren't a patch on these new boats. I shudder to think what the Germans would have done to our convoys with the same subs.

I had a kid's awe of the undersea boats, then, and now it appears I finally got to ride one. It's a ride I wouldn't have taken, undaunted, four years ago.

Tiny Ann Arbor Chapel Stands As Testimony To Fellowship Of Man

By John F. Mayhew
Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP)—In humble and unaffected simplicity, the tiny chapel of St. Francis of Assisi stands here as testimony that the fellowship of man is still humanity's greatest bond.

Built in 1940 by men of many callings, under the inspiration and guidance of Dr. Inez Wisdom, the 11 by 12 foot stucco building is no bigger than a small garage.

But it was built of the spirit, hopes and good fellowship of carpenters, architects, painters, stone masons, laborers and the gifts and donations of innumerable citizens. And the chapel is weaving itself into an ever-growing segment of the population here and in nearby cities.

The busy and personable Dr. Wisdom somehow found time from her extensive practice to bring into reality a dream of many years. She built the little chapel in a grove of trees adjoining her home on a three acre plot on the edge of town. And though she tooted much of the bill herself, there was no lack of helpers.

Some patients, short of money, worked off their bills on the chapel, she explains. "Some worked out of interest and good will. Others, many others, sent gifts to outfit the chapel."

Students from the nearby University of Michigan, the Doctor's Alma Mater, contributed a share. One, an architect now, designed and hand-built the cedar roof, transported complete by truck and installed it over the walls of the building.

Another, a painter, conceived and executed the brilliantly colored mural of Christ as a young man that forms the background for the tiny altar.

And, as it was constructed, so it is being used—by all people. Weddings and christenings have been performed here for people in all walks of life.

The Doctor doesn't remember all their names. One, a "friend of our milkman," wanted a church wedding but was short of funds. "It was a nice wedding," Dr. Wisdom recalls. "And he was very pleased."

The Ann Arbor-born doctor illustrates the broad cross-section of persons using the chapel by recalling the dedication ceremonies held in 1941.

She invited, particularly, all the workmen whose efforts had gone into the actual construction of the building.

"Most of them came," she says. "But one fellow, a cement worker, forgot—at least he forgot until he passed the chapel on a load of cement and saw all the people about. He came in to apologize."

"However, I gave him a coat left in the house by one of the officiating priests. My friend put it on over his work clothes and joined the procession."

Seney

Mrs. J. Westerbeck and daughter Sue, have returned to Sycamore, Ill., after visiting here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Furst and her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. D. Lloyd.

Fifty million people a year visit United States museums.

DREAM BECOMES A CHAPEL — For years Dr. Inez Wilson (right), of Ann Arbor, dreamed of building a little chapel on her property. Eight years ago the dream came true. Patients who owed her money, University of Michigan students, painters, workmen—a great variety of persons offered their work and skills to build the tiny gem. Now it stands in its quiet corner as a monument to the fellowship of man. (AP Photo)

POPLAR IS USED TO MAKE PAPER

Other Deciduous Woods
Are Utilized

Washington.—Thanks to a synthetic resin, woods such as maple, beech, birch and poplar can be used to make a paper of excellent quality, the National Bureau of Standards revealed. Woods formerly little used may now help ease the shortage of printing stock.

Most papers made from wood come from the evergreen spruce, fir, hemlock and pine, with some other wood used to supplement them. Deciduous woods, from trees that shed their foliage annually, are now used only as filler in the manufacture of high-grade printing paper. They do not produce the primary qualities of strength and resistance to surface pick in the usual methods of processing. However, with the addition of melamine formaldehyde, the resin employed, they acquire the desirable qualities.

The discovery of the process for using deciduous woods in papermaking is important because the supply of the ordinary woods used is rapidly decreasing. Large quantities of the non-coniferous trees are available, and the process provides an economic use for them.

In conventional papermaking, the fibers are prepared for fabrication by mechanical beating in water. Beating causes the fibers to absorb water and form a gel-like film on their surfaces by a structural change called hydration. This gel is the cement that bonds the fibers together to give paper of conventional manufacture its strength.

The beating, however, is accountable for unwanted qualities. It promotes some of the most troublesome behavior of paper in printing, including high expansion, excessive curling, slow oil absorption, and show through of images.

The new technique substitutes the synthetic resin bonds between the fibers for the gel-like bonds formed by hydration. The resin bonding gives strength with only a fraction of the beating required without it, and it produces a superior paper by elimination of the adverse effects of hydration.

Several types of synthetic resin were used by the National Bureau of Standards, but the melamine-formaldehyde resin gave the best results to date. Surprisingly small amounts of this resin are required, usually less than 3 per cent by weight.

A bird's wing, composed of individual feathers, is a more efficient instrument of flight than the wing membranes of all other flying creatures from butterflies to bats.

The horse chestnut supposedly gets its name from the scars left on twigs when leaves fall in the autumn. The scars resemble miniature horseshoes, with series of dots representing nail holes.

CLASSES

TROUT
1. Brook Trout (Salvelinus fontinalis)
2. Brown Trout (Salmo trutta)
3. Rainbow Trout (Salmo gairdneri)
4. Lake Trout (Salmo macrochirus)
5. Pike and Muskellunge
6. Northern Pike (Esox lucius)
7. Muskellunge (Esox masquinongy)
8. Wall-eyed Pike, Pike Perch (Stizostedion vitreum)

BLACK BASS
9. Small Mouth Bass (Micropterus dolomieu)
10. Large Mouth Bass (Micropterus salmoides)
11. Perch (Perca flavescens)
12. Smelt (Osmerus mordax)
13. Sunfish (Lepomis gibbosus)
14. Bluegill (Lepomis macrochirus)
15. Rock Bass (Ambloplites rupestris)

(Additional classes will be added if interest warrants.)

RULES
1. The Contest is open to everybody, men, women and children. Contest opens with the legal fishing season and closes on Labor Day. Envelopes containing entries must bear a postmark not later than September 6, 1948, to be eligible.

2. All fish entered in the contest must be caught in public waters of Upper Michigan during the open season in the respective fish class.

3. Contest is limited to fish taken with hook and line. Any legal lure may be used. Lake trout must be caught on a rod or line freely held in the hand and not attached to a boat.

4. All information asked for on the entry blank should be supplied. Failure to give length and girth may disqualify entries. Fish must be weighed on tested scales and measured with a steel tape measure, the length taken from the end of the lower jaw with the mouth closed to the tip of the tail, and the greatest girth of the fish taken. Weight may be given dressed or in the round or both.

5. In the wall-eyed pike and black bass classes a photograph is desirable to be sure of identity of the species.

6. In the event of two or more fish weighing and measuring exactly the same, identical trophies will be awarded. Greatest measurements will decide the winner when weights are approximately equal.

7. Accompany your entry with a photograph of yourself or the fish or both together with a brief story of how, where and when the fish was caught. A photograph is not essential to win an award but it is desirable.

8. The entry blank printed above, or an exact copy must be used. It must be signed by the person catching the fish and by two witnesses who examined the fish and verified its weight and measurements. The contestant agrees, if requested to do so by the judges, to furnish an affidavit attesting to the truth of all statements made in the entry.

9. Contestants may make as many entries in all classes as they wish.

PRIZE AWARDS

In each of the classes the angler entering the fish which is adjudged to be the largest in its class will receive a trophy in recognition of his or her accomplishment.

Additional blanks may be had free of charge by addressing Outdoors Editor, Escanaba Daily Press, Escanaba, Michigan.

Ida E. Kallio
Speaks Vows In Ceremony Here

Ida Eleanor Kallio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kallio, Trenary, and Floyd Kallio, of Milwaukee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kallio, 715 Ludington street, Escanaba, were married Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Immanuel Lutheran church by Rev. L. R. Lund. Mixed bouquets of snapdragons, gladioli, roses and daisies decorated the altar for the service.

Mrs. Wedell of Manistique sang "I Love You Truly" and "Oh Promise Me." The traditional bridal march was played by Betty Erickson, organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white marquisette over taffeta with white satin trim at the neckline and satin roses on the full skirt. Her fingertip veil, edged with lace, was caught to a pearl beaded crown. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, snapdragons and daisies.

Dinner and Reception
Her sister, Ruth, who was maid of honor, wore blue, and Emily Kallio, of Milwaukee, sister of the bridegroom, the bridesmaid, wore pink, their gowns of net over taffeta. Matching head bands with clusters of lily of the valley, and elbow length gloves completed their ensembles. They carried colonial bouquets of mixed flowers with satin bows of the shade of the gowns.

The bride's mother wore a gray suit with blue accessories and the bridegroom's mother a black and white ensemble.

Mr. Kallio's best man was LeRoy Richmond of Trenary and ushering was Arnold Aho, also of Trenary.

A wedding dinner for 60 guests, followed by a reception, was served at the Chicken Shack. The three tiered wedding cake with its miniature bride and groom centered the decorations of bouquets of mixed flowers.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Twin Lakes and other points in Michigan, the bride wearing a blue gabardine suit with matching accessories for traveling. They will live in Milwaukee at 719 East Pleasant.

Wedding Guests
The bride, a 1947 graduate of Trenary high school, is employed in stenographic work in Milwaukee. Mr. Kallio, who served in France and Germany, completed his course at Trenary high school in 1947 after his return from the service and is now employed as a mechanic at the Auto Body's shop in Milwaukee.

Guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kallio, Marquette; Mrs. Viola Dahlbeck, Gladstone; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wedell, Menomonie, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Johnson, Escanaba; Clayton Trudell, Trenary; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kallio, Escanaba; Mr. and Mrs. Eino Sturvist, Mr. and Mrs. George Kallio, Mr. and Mrs. Toivo Kallio, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Kallio, Chatham; Mr. and

Truly Attractive
Woman Does Not Depend On Looks

Every young woman ought to give some thought to the qualities in a woman that make her attractive, after she can no longer depend on looks alone. That time comes sooner than most girls realize, and it comes to all women.

The woman who is attractive at all ages meets most of these requirements:

She has a happy disposition. A discontented or mean-tempered woman gets more unattractive with each passing year.

She has a sense of humor. This, as much as any one quality, makes a woman an entertaining companion. And the woman who can't depend on youthful beauty, must be a good companion.

She has a natural friendliness. This is a help at any age, but it also becomes more important with each passing year.

Look Around You
She has a lively interest in what is going on in the world. The woman who is interested only in her family and her little circle of friends is invariably a dull woman.

She is generous enough to be glad for the good things that happen to her friends.

She has learned to live and let live. The habit of criticizing others grows on a woman, and the more critical of others, she becomes, the less attractive a person she is.

Those aren't all of the qualities that make a woman attractive at any age. But they probably are the most important.

Flapper Hat of Twenties Is Back In Paris Fashion

By Florence Mills
Paris, (AP)—Remember that hat the flappers used to wear back in the twenties—the one that looked like a tight-fitting pot? They called it a cloche. Remember?

Well, it's coming back for the woman of 1948 if Paris milliners have their way.

Simone Cange and Albouy, two of the top-ranking milliners in Paris, are reintroducing it. Other houses have shown the same trend, but most of them have blended the cloche with the beret or bonnet style, the result being a strictly 1948 silhouette.

But Albouy's fall hats show nothing of this cross breeding. They hug the back of the head and hide the ears, just like the ones of two decades ago. They differ in only one respect from those of the flapper area. They finish just beyond the crown of the head instead of nearly reaching the forehead. The result generally is more becoming.

Simone Cange has dubbed her silhouette the "lampshade cloche." She injects the 1948 touch by perching her models to the side front of the head, instead of the back.

FAIR EXPECTS MANY QUEENS

Contest Will Be Held Here On Aug. 17

Because interest is at a high level and entries are already being received, Claude E. Bishop, queens' day manager, and members of a committee assisting him are confident that a number of girls in excess of the 24 who entered last year's contest will compete Monday, Aug. 17, for the Upper Peninsula State Fair queen title in Escanaba.

The Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, through Bishop, field representative, has been promoting this event at the U. P. Fair since 1946, but this year he will be assisted by a committee of five persons.

The committee consists of Mrs. G. C. Meyland, Marquette, official queens' chaperone who will supervise them during their appearance at the fair; Dr. J. C. Clement, Iron Mountain, judging director; Mrs. Ben J. Grobaski, L'Anse, in charge of the queens' wardrobe; Edward C. Stevens, Negaunee, recreation director, who will supervise preparations for the coronation, and Mrs. Harold Q. Groos, in charge of the costume department.

"The success of queens' day has been due, in a large measure, to the capable assistance of Mrs. Meyland who has been working to promote Upper Peninsula queens for 12 years," Bishop said. "She and other members of the committee have been arousing unusual interest in this year's event and we expect a record number of communities to be represented in the contest."

Bishop reviewed the Fair queens' contest history briefly.

In 1946, the U. P. Fair board decided to set aside one day of the fair for competition among young ladies of the Peninsula who have won a title in local contests. "We have had centennial queens, roleo queens, blueberry queens, and snow queens picked every year," he said. "In the past, little was heard about the queens after they had won such local contests, and so it was decided to bring them to the fair and give them greater opportunity for recognition."

In the first contest in 1946, 18 local queens from every county in the Peninsula took part, judges selecting Miss Colleen Rappette of Gladstone as "Fair Queen." Last year, there were 24 entrants and Miss Barbara Jean Erickson of Iron River took top honors.

"The event proved such a success last year that we had to appoint a staff to handle this one event at the fair," Bishop said. "We have no doubt that this year's contest will be even bigger and that there will be a record attendance of fair-goers from communities which are entering their local queens."

Community Druggist May Be Displaced

San Francisco, (SS) — Your neighborhood drugstore pharmacist may soon be a displaced person, predicts Dean J. Lester Hayman of the University of West Virginia College of Pharmacy, who spoke as president-elect here before the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy.

Dean Hayman pointed out that the independent drugstore pharmacist fills only a very limited number of prescriptions, while there is a growing demand for pharmaceutical service elsewhere.

He referred to the "increasing millions of our people under the coverage of prepayment or insurance plans for health coverage, many of which include or will include the providing of routine medication." In addition he listed the trend in labor organizations for the inclusion of health benefits in their labor contracts; health services established in industrial concerns for employees and their families, and the government's program of medical care for veterans.

Presumably, pharmaceutical service would still be provided by pharmacists, but these trends, Dean Hayman predicts, may mean that "in the not too distant future a greater portion of the medication will be obtained through hospitals, clinics, dispensaries, or Veterans' Administration facilities."

Camera News

THE SEINE RIVER in Paris, seen through an arch, makes a snap-worthy scene, with composition enhanced by the frame.

By IRVING DESFOR

The Americans are shooting again in earnest in foreign countries. Snap-shooting, that is, in the good old tourist fashion for which our travelers have always been noted. The One big attraction, of course is the Olympics in London. The camera being the universal travel equipment that it is, a few reminders may still be in order.

The No. 1 advice is: Take your own film, enough for all your personal needs during the trip as well as your stay. The film supply abroad is none too plentiful and can't be depended upon. Where the film is obviously for personal tourist use there is no trouble with the customs men. England has on its statute books a heavy import duty and tax on film coming into the country, but in actual practice it is not invoked except where an over-supply makes it look like resale of film is intended. Breaking the seals of the packages is a simple way to show that the films are only for sight-seeing needs.

To prepare for any inclement weather, especially in England, a good part of the supply should be under poorer light conditions. And try to get all your reserve supply in tropical packing so that extreme weather changes will be less of a factor.

It's best to wait till you return home before processing the film. Especially for travelers on the go, foreign facilities for developing and printing may not be too dependable. Of course there's a good argument to be made for the first efforts to be processed immediately as a spot check on exposures. But the bulk should go along with you. Then you know you'll have them and that they will be developed under conditions with which you are familiar.

Don't forget full vacation picture coverage starts with your "Good-Byes" at home and ends when you return. The trip itself, whether by train, auto, hitch-hiking or ocean luxury needs recording in informal, natural poses. Signposts along the route are good record shots at depots, docks or domiciles, with someone looking at, or pointing to them.

Your own personal viewpoint of foreign scenes or interesting places should reveal the locale in a distinguishable manner by local trademarks. For instance, a close up of your wife, or yourself, leaning against a tree trunk would never say by itself that it was taken in Hyde Park, England, or the Boisé de Boulogne in France. But have a bobby or a gendarme in the picture in the background and it places it immediately.

And in taking pictures of buildings, don't tilt the camera upwards to get it all in. You may have to move further back till you get it all in the viewfinder.

while the camera is held level. Framing a picture is always in style. Look for archways, leaves at the top, columns at the sides and the composition seems to improve automatically.

Now to make most of these reminders practical for the bulk of us plain, ordinary vacationers, just substitute "ferry boat" for "ocean liner" and it'll do for you, you and you.

Weather May Be Used As U. S. A. War Weapon

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Military Affairs Reporter

Washington (AP)—The United States is exploring the possibility of using weather as a military weapon.

Secrecy as deep as that surrounding the atom bomb and germ warfare development cloaks these studies of "meteorological warfare."

Officials of the armed forces and national defense organization declined to discuss the project or disclose what progress researchers have made.

However, a recent paper published in London by the international committee for study of European questions mentioned military developments of various nations and had this to say of the United States:

"She X X X has got well ahead with her studies of bacteriological warfare and meteorological warfare. The latter is likely to become the most destructive of all."

What military scientists want is a method of controlling the weather and directing its effect on an enemy nation. Such control would offer various possibilities, not the least of which would be the ability to create droughts and thus destroy the food supply of a nation.

This—if attainable—would be a form of strategic warfare ranking alongside existing methods for destroying a nation's munitions factories by air bombing.

In World War II some infrequent and small-scale attacks were made on growing crops in Germany through the use of incendiary bombs to light fields of ripened grain. On a still smaller scale, there were occasional oil spraying attacks, mainly nuisance raids, on gardens of Japanese occupation forces. But these efforts in no way were on anything resembling a strategic scale.

If scientists can develop the "cloud seeding" experiments already conducted they may be able to turn loose drought or flood at will.

In recent months the military has shown keen interest in the laboratory-scale experiments of civilian scientists, notably those of Vincent J. Schaefer and Dr. Ir-

LOSES FINGER IN CAR CRASH

Norway Girl Victim In One Of 3 Accidents

Three auto accidents were investigated by Michigan State Police over the weekend.

Donna Mae Rozine, six, daughter of Fred J. Rozine, 810 Section, Norway, lost a finger when her father lost control of his auto about 100 feet this side of Nahma Junction and the vehicle overturned.

An auto driven by Wm. R. Gamble of Route 1, Gladstone, was struck by another car driven by Charles C. Houle, 1805 Ludington St. Escanaba, on US-2-41 north of Kipling about 6 p. m. Saturday night. Gamble was going to turn off the highway and was struck in the rear by Houle's auto.

Autos driven by Norman Kee, 918 Dakota avenue, city, and Neil Anne Fleming of Nahma collided on US-2 about two miles west of Nahma Junction at 6:10 Sunday evening. Kee was pulling out from a parked position on the road shoulder when hit.

Astronomer Finds New Heavenly Body

Cambridge, Mass. — Another new object has been discovered in the heavens by C. A. Wirtanen of Lick Observatory of the University of California.

Found in the constellation of Pegasus, the winged horse, Dr. Charles D. Shane, Lick's director, states that it is of the 13th magnitude and thus far too faint to be seen without a good telescope.

Instead of being another comet, the object is probably an asteroid moving unusually rapidly across the heavens. Located on plates taken on July 21, it is headed northwest, according to reports received here at Harvard College Observatory, clearing house for such astronomical information in the Western hemisphere.

This is the second faint object Mr. Wirtanen has discovered this month. Only last week he reported finding a 15th magnitude comet, located in the near-by constellation of Equuleus, the colt, and headed toward the constellation of Aquila, the eagle.

Early in the morning of July 21, the object's right ascension was 21 hours, 7.8 minutes; its declination plus 12 degrees, 27 minutes. Its daily motion in right ascension is minus 22 seconds, in declination one degree, 28 minutes.

Losses from livestock that reached markets dead, crippled, or bruised in 1947 were estimated at $25 million.

Name Local Man To Aid In Chiropractic Research Program

Denver, August 5.—The appointment of Dr. Clifford A. Kinnie, of 424 Minneapolis Ave. Gladstone, Michigan, as District Captain of the eastern half of the Upper Peninsula in the Chiropractic Research Foundation's multi-million dollar development program is announced by national C. R. F. headquarters.

Dr. W. W. Derfield of Detroit, State C. R. F. Chairman, named Dr. Kinnie to the post.

The new appointee will work in co-operation with Dr. Derfield and Dr. E. D. Brangan of Manistique, Michigan, Major-in-Charge of the Upper Peninsula area. Their purpose is to aid in developing the Foundation's 9-point program to build new chiropractic hospitals, colleges, and advanced research centers throughout the nation.

Outdoor Services Planned for Sunday

Religious services for members of the First Lutheran congregation will be held outdoors at Brooklawn, summer home of Dr. Gideon Olson, near Fuller Park at the mouth of the Bark River next Sunday.

Services will be at 1 o'clock and members and friends of the church are invited to be at Brooklawn at 12 o'clock noon for a picnic dinner. Each family will bring their own dinner. Coffee, cream and sugar will be furnished by Mrs. Gideon Olson.

In the event of rain the service will be held in the First Lutheran church at the usual hour with Dr. Olson presiding.

Bob D'Amour Takes Engineering Post

Bob was graduated in June from the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton with a degree of mechanical engineer.

Western Tourists See Wildlife Park

Jackson Hole, Wyo., (SS)—Vacation travelers today had their first opportunity to see a sample of primitive western American wildlife in its natural environment, as the new 1,500-acre Jackson Hole Wildlife Park was thrown open to visitors. A fence, so arranged as to be practically invisible, surrounds 400 acres of the area, keeping elk, bison, moose, deer and pronghorn within easy sight of the automobile road. Horseback trails make more of the wilderness accessible to those who wish to stay longer.

This newest wildlife park has been set upon land made available by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and his son Laurence S. Rockefeller. The Wyoming Game and Fish Commission, the Jackson Hole Preserve, Inc., and the New York Zoological Society are co-operating in its development.

Although the new park is open to tourists only during the warm season for easy travel, it will be used by research zoologists on a year-round basis for the study of the ways of wild animals.

Wartime destruction of trees has sharply reduced potential exports of walnuts from North China.

The nation-wide manufacturing and purchasing facilities of Western Electric Company and the centralized research of Bell Telephone Laboratories both help Michigan Bell to serve you efficiently and economically.

Western Electric manufactures or buys nearly everything Michigan Bell uses from paper clips and motor trucks to vacuum tubes and the most complicated central office apparatus.

This assures us of high standards of quality, reasonable prices and a dependable source of supply. By working for the whole Bell System, Western Electric passes on to Michigan Bell the savings of mass production, mass distribution and quantity purchasing.

Bell Laboratories provide Michigan Bell with the results of the most modern and extensive scientific research for better, more economical communication facilities—all at only a fraction of what it would cost to maintain an equally productive laboratory for Michigan Bell alone.

These two Bell System organizations help make it possible for you to have good telephone service at low cost.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to all the kind relatives, neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Joseph Semper. We are very grateful to Rev. Fr. Arnold Thompson for his consoling words and other manifestations of sympathy, to those who served as pallbearers, sent floral and spiritual bouquets, donated the use of their cars and to all others who aided us in so many ways. The memory of these acts of kindness will always remain with us.

Never Gave Secrets, Spy Witness Says

Ex-Government Official
Denies Red Hookup

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—Duncan C. Lee, 33-year-old former OSS operative, denied in the face of new accusations today that he ever gave secret information to Elizabeth T. Bentley, confessed former Russian agent.

In one-two order, the House un-American activities committee put Lee on its stand and then recalled Miss Bentley to repeat accusations she has made.

Lee, during the war, was with the Office of Strategic Services, a counter espionage agency. He is now practicing law here.

Lee swore he was not a Communist and said he had never disclosed secret information to any unauthorized person. He said it was hard to believe Miss Bentley's charges came from a "rational person."

Miss Bentley then took the stand and testified Lee told her about "something super secret" going on at Oak Ridge, Tenn., where the atom bomb was developed, about OSS operations in China and in the Balkans.

Lee didn't know exactly what was going on at Oak Ridge, Miss Bentley said, but told her it must be "something super secret" because it was so highly guarded.

She said she gave him the information during a conversation outside his home in Washington.

Operation Prevents 'Limps' From Polio

New York, (SS)—Children with a polio-shortened leg can be saved from a lifetime of limping by a method announced at the First International Poliomyelitis Conference here.

The method consists in an exactly timed operation to shorten the longer leg. It was devised by Drs. William T. Green and Thomas Gucker III and Miss Margaret Anderson of the Children's Hospital of Boston.

A leg paralyzed in childhood commonly does not grow as rapidly as a normal leg. If only one leg is paralyzed, the child may when he is fully grown have one leg as much as four and a half inches shorter than the other.

To correct this difference, one or more of the growing ends of the bone in the longer leg is operated on so that it will grow at a slower rate. The object is to slow down the normal longer leg to the point where the paralyzed, slower-growing leg can catch up with it in length by the time the child stops growing.

The big problem is to catch the growing end of the longer leg at exactly the right time. A guide for this, in the form of a chart of bone growth in 160 children, was worked out by the Boston scientists. The chart was made from measurements of X-ray pictures of the children who were observed continuously from periods of three to 11 years. The growth expectancy for the leg bones was determined for each age level from this chart. From this the scientists could predict the rate at which the longer leg would grow each year, and thus when to operate.

The child who shows signs of failure in growth and consequently has a more string bean physique may be more likely to get polio, it appears from growth studies by Drs. Neil N. Litman and James F. Bosma of the University of Minnesota.

'Buzzers' Now Put On Fishing Hooks

Washington, (SS)—An electrical gadget that can be a good friend both to the very lazy fisherman and the very busy one has been invented by Antoni Linder of Chicago, and is covered by U. S. patent 2,446,427, just issued here.

It is built essentially like a door or desk buzzer, only instead of having a button to push it has a hook to pull. The fisherman's line is made fast to this hook, and when a fish bites, the tug transmitted through the line closes the contact and sounds the buzzer.

The lazy, vacationing fisherman, with one line out, can lean back and snooze, or sit up and play bridge or engage in whatever other activity may be going on aboard, until the buzzer sounds. On the other hand, the busy commercial fisherman, who may have a dozen or more lines out at once, will be notified by the buzzer whenever a fish is waiting to be hauled in.

Cost Over Million For Freedom Train

New York, (AP)—The freedom train has been on the road almost eleven months—at a cost of about $1,000,000, a spokesman for the American heritage foundation said.

He estimated an additional $255,000 will be spent in financing the remainder of the train's 13-month tour.

Bearing 127 of the nation's most priceless documents, the train so far has traveled 26,886 miles across the continent and been visited by an estimated 2,380,000 persons in 247 cities.

The train started on its itinerary from Philadelphia last September. Now at Portsmouth, Ohio, it is scheduled to wind up its tour at Camden, N. J., October 18.

TWINS, THRICE, IN 27 MONTHS—It's the same old story for Mrs. Charles E. Summers, 30, of Doylestown, O. Yep, twins again. It's the third set in 27 months for the Summers' family—on May 26, 1946, Susan and Patricia; on Sept. 2, 1947, Michael and Paul; and here are the latest, Charles Jr. and John, born Aug. 1. Mrs. Summers, a former WAC, married her husband, Charles, in New Guinea, where both were stationed.

Library Adventure

By Arnold Mulder

Those who have had an opportunity to have a good look at the first volume of Winston Churchill's memoirs will doubtless anticipate a literary feast during the next two or three years. For there will be five volumes in the series, each of them some 600 or 700 pages. The first of the series proves that Churchill has not lost the art of expression. "Memoirs of the Second World War" bids fair to be one of the most important documents of our time.

The first volume is called "The Gathering Storm" and describes the setting of the stage for the second World War during the years from 1919 to 1939. The title is reminiscent of another book Churchill published between the two wars, during the years when he was out of office and was bucking the British government. That book was called "Amid

These Storms." Even at that time Churchill realized that the dangerous storm clouds were gathering, although he was not taking very seriously at the time.

The second volume in the present series will be published next January and is to be called "Their Finest Hour." The import of the title is obvious. All the world has recognized the fact since 1940 that the opening stages of the second World War represent the finest hour of British manhood. Since the volume is bound to describe the early period of the war, the author could hardly help paying a tribute to the people he led into the paths of "blood, sweat and tears."

No announcement has yet been made, at least not by Churchill's American publishers, as to what will be the titles of the other three volumes. Those of the first two suggest the expectation that they will have an aptness that readers have come to expect of the English war statesman. For Churchill is miles ahead of most of the other British writers of war memoirs, and ever farther ahead of American statesmen who have turned writers, in skill of expression, especially in titles. The titles of most war volumes by people who are not primarily writers are painfully flat or too flamboyant. Churchill has both skill and taste in such things.

Nor is this accidental. For Winston Churchill was a writer before he became a statesman, and he has remained a writer in spite of his preoccupation with matters of state. He began life as a foreign correspondent in Africa and in the Boer War. Almost before he was out of his teens he had done a war book, one that was somewhat underdone and not too well baked, but it taught him at least to express himself.

And throughout his life he has put into words the record of the great events he had been connected with both as minor figure and as major actor. He is thus perhaps the most articulate statesman of the twentieth century. Most other statesmen express themselves orally; that has become the accepted technique for people of that sort. Churchill has developed a speaking method that is one of the most effective of our time. But he has distanced most of the other public men by not neglecting writing as an expression. Roosevelt, for instance, was a great talker, but he was nowhere as effective as a writer. Churchill has always been both.

Between wars for instance, while he was out of office he busied himself writing a definite biography of the Duke of Marlborough, the British strong man of the eighteenth century. Churchill's memoirs will be important not merely because of their intrinsic interest but because they will be the work of a skillful writer.

Marquette Firemen Eye 'Loving' Bonus

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 10 (AP)—Interest in a local fire department vacancy skyrocketed when the Marquette Mining Journal mentioned this added incentive: "Monthly cost of loving Bonus of $32.50."

The fire department and the newspaper hastened to explain it was just a typographical error.

New Blow Aimed At Living Costs

out of the automobile market temporarily, for instance, by the Federal Reserve board's plans to cinch up credit on nearly every major item sold at retail on the installment plan.

Easy Payments Doomed
This will cut into consumer demand and, the government believes, remove from the market some of the credit-bolstered buying power which is jacking up prices.

At the start, the Federal Reserve may simply reissue a slightly doctored version of its wartime "Regulation W" which expired last year. This put a 15-month limit on installment purchases, ruling out the "easy payment" plans which now frequently run for two or three years.

Once the regulation is back on the books and the control machinery operating, it may be modified, officials said. Autos cost so much more nowadays, they said, that an 18-month payment may be more suitable. The 18-month limit could be extended across the consumer goods field.

The controls over down payments are likely to come back "as was." That means one-third down for passenger cars, refrigerators, washing machines, radios, silverware, jewelry and other items. Twenty per cent was required for furniture, pianos, rugs and draperies.

Purchases of less than $50 and more than $2,000 probably will be control-free, although the upper limit may be lifted because $2,000 hardly buys a "low-price" car in today's market.

Charge accounts and such costs as medical and funeral expenses will be exempt from controls.

Critics of the consumer credit program complain that persons of modest means will be barred from owning cars and household labor-saving appliances. Snyder, at a news conference last week replied, in effect: The little fellow will be better off in the long run by waiting to buy; he may get a better price when he does enter the market.

Rookie Shortstop Crowds Musial For Honors In Hitting

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—The biggest obstacle in the path of Alvin Dark, rookie shortstop of the Boston Braves, toward his drive to become the first freshman to win the National league batting championship since 1941, is Stan Musial, the slugging outfielder of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Dark, whose skill both at bat and in the field has been a great factor in Boston's pennant drive, increased his batting average four points to a fine .334, but still trails Musial by 54 points. Although he slipped three percentage points, Stan boasts a gaudy .388 through games of Sunday, Aug. 8, on 155 hits in 400 times at bat.

The only rookie ever to win the league's batting crown was Pete Reiser, of Brooklyn, who averaged .343 in 1941. Dark holds the runner-up spot by seven points over Andy Pafko of the Chicago Cubs who dropped a couple of points during the week to .327. Richie Ashburn, rookie centerfielder of the Philadelphia Phillies, holds onto fourth place with .324. Tied for fifth at .318 are Tommy Holmes of the Braves and Peanut Lowrey of the Cubs.

Enos Slaughter of the Cardinals, whose 17-game hitting streak was snapped in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader with Philadelphia, climbed into seventh place with .314. Ed Waitkus, third Cub in the first ten, moved into eighth spot with .310, two percentage points above Wally Westlake of the Pittsburgh Pirates who had .308.

A pair of New York Giants, Whitey Lockman and Sid Gordon, are tied for tenth spot, each with .304.
